TERMS OF THE DAILY DEMOCRAT TO THE COUNTRY.

One of the greatest errors committed by the secessionists was acting upon the idea that the interests of the two sections of the In the Seed business, in Louisville, for ten years, and trust that we are fully acquainted with the wants of sible for them to dwell teach the it was impossible for them to dwell teach the interval and the second sible for them to dwell teach the interval and the second sible for them to dwell teach the second sible for the s sible for them to dwell together in peace. In the madness of the hour, they accepted the challenge thrown down to them by Mr. Lincoln, that a house divided against itself cannot stand; the statement having direct reference to the Union of free and slave States. Allured by the plantom of a Southern Empire, exasperated by the threat of an irrepressible conflict, in an hour ruinous to them and to us they reduced to practice the theory of hostility of interests, and plunged into a still more readful conflict of arms. They were guiltier than the Abolitionists only as far as the act exceeds the conception. Charmed by the syren tongues of eloquent and popular leaders, irritated and alarmed by the announcement of a theory of antagonism, which threatened all they held dear, they did not pause where their guilty counterpart in the North did, at the declaration of a mischievous, treasonable theory, but boldly met them halfway with arms in their hands. How easy it was at such a time, when every bad passion was at such a time, when every bad passion was rife, to deceive them. When the pure and impure alike gave way to the hot ambition of a few, feeding them with golden, glorious promises, how easy it was to believe that those with whom they had prospered so long had interests different and hostile to theirs.

Tebels that which has given them strength and power, you destroy the rebellion, and your artillery is effectual. [Applause in the galleries and on the floor, and some hisses.]

Now, sir, I would not touch, here or elsewhere, the rights, the interests, the privileges, or anything else belonging to a Union man, or to any man who has stood for his country in a rebellion. interests different and hostile to theirs.

Disguise it as we may, rebellion never took a more alluring shape to the young, the thoughtless and the ambitious than that which swept the Southern States into revolution. Resentment burned in them at the declarations of those new coming into power; and the promise of wealth and honor, greater than Cortez won over the fallen temples of Mexico, floated the semblance of a beautiful reality be fore their eyes. If the error was great-and no greater one ever was made—the temptation was almost irresistible. A few of the leaders clung desperately to the altars of the Constitution, but the waves of rebellion rolled over them and their cries were drowned in the exultant shout of a new republic and Southern ndependence.

Although they still battle vigorously, desperately, to maintain the rash assumption they have made; yes, even in the shock of battles, at a time when the aroused feelings would give us least reason to expect it, we find wiser sentiments prevailing, or at least advocated. They have found out the truth which they inevitably were to find out-that the interests of the American people are identical. It will be seen that the Ecquirer still clings to the idea of two republics, but it is on the right path to a Union when it asserts the unity of interests of the people North and South. It is the tie, the only tie, which can bind us together in one great confederated republic. It is as one great nation that we can demand the enforcement of the Monroe doctrine. It is as one people we can resist and resent the "kindness" which Napoleon has ex-sought to leave in preference to foreign nations, It is this spirit of Americanism surviving battle, ruin, desolation and destruction which gives the surest promise of a reunion.

It is popular and profitable now to decry these men, who, under such circumstances, Louisville and Nashville bave retained such an undying love; for American institutions. Words of hatred, reviling and contempt, sing in the ears of power a song sweeter than that of the nightingale to his mate; but when we think of what they have been; their glorious past; the splendor of their statesmanship; the record of ON AND AFTER SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 187, 1863, their virtues, we have no heart to join in the 5 A. They have rejected the kindness and the aid of those who loved them; but now that their house is left desolate, the nation should lament as over the chosen city, crying, "Ob, Jerusalem, Jerusalem, which killest the prophets and stonest them that are sent unto thee; how often would I have gathered thy children together even as a hen doth gather her brood under her wings, but ve

No such spirit, we fear, actuates those in power. They will receive with indifference a declaration showing a preference for our country, important as it is to us. In the purthey see nothing, hear nothing, care for noth- tell this House and the country that the pre-

Kentucky Congressmen Defining their Positions-Smith, Mallory, Wadsworth and others.

We furnish the following debate, which occurred in Congress on the 25th inst., between several of the Kentucky members-defining their positions. It will be read with interest by our Kentucky readers :

Mr. SMITH. Mr. Chairman, I did not intend to say anything upon this subject; but having witnessed for the last two years or more the operations of the armies of the coun-iry, and, to some extent, the effect of ordunace and small-arms upon the enemy, I feel it to be my duty upon this occasion to say, that while there is power in these, and while the Govrnment must through these execute its laws and vindicate its integrity, there remains behind this rebellion that which gives it strength and power, which must be overthrown and destroyed on the other side while our armies and our orderne premier is the strength.

It is true that General Lee is within a short distance of this city; it is true that Longstreet is fortifying himself in Eastern Tennessee; it is true that Beauregard is at Charles-ton; it is true that other rebel forces are in ton; it is true that other rebel forces are in various quarters of this country, bidding defiance to the Government of the United States and its soldiery; but their forces in arms against the Government are maintained and fed by, and their very life-blood is drawn from, African slavery in the South, and whenever you—and I say it here as a Kentuckian and as a Southern man, always having been identified with the institution of slavery, and believing that as a citizen of Kentucky I had a right to it, and so believing still—that whenever you sap the foundation of this accursed rebellion and tear from under the rebels that which has given them strength and power, you destroy the rebellion, and rebellions State or in a loyal State; but when a man has evinced his hatred to this Government, when he has voluntarily taken up arms against this Government, and when he has brought his artillery to play upon its Constitution and its principles and its liberties, he can demand of me, as a legislator for the people of this country, no, privileges in horses. ple of this country, no privileges in horses, cattle, lands, or negroes. The bulwark which prevented the American people, by its army, from moving down to the South and exercising jurisdiction there—that bulwark, supported by four million slaves—must be removed; and the evidence that we have a right to remove it is that we have a right to crush the rebellion. It was the 'm' you the Government to do it. The Government would have failed in its duty to itself and to all future generations if it did not, in its power and majesty. Sweep away that bulk its power for what they did during the war. I want no rankling left behind. I want, when this war is over for what they did during the war. I want no rankling left behind. Mr. SMITH. I will ask my colleague one questien, if he will allow me.

Mr. MALLORY. Certainly.

Mr. SMITH. I ask my colleague whether I was not a candidate for election to Congress in the district now known as the sixth district of Kentucky ever imposed upon their representatives in Congress the duty of voting for a war Democrat for Speaker?

Mr. SMITH. I thought the gentleman had said so, and he quoted my speech as evidence of that fact. If it is not true, I am exempt from the charge made against me by my colleagues.

Mr. MALLORY. I quoted your speech to show that you disapproved and denounced the emancipation proclamation, and the reading the bound of the speech showed that you did pledge yourself in that speech to vote for a war Democrat for Speaker?

Mr. SMITH. I thought the gentleman had said so, and he quoted my speech as evidence of that fact. If it is not true, I am exempt from the charge made against me by my colleagues.

Mr. MALLORY. I quoted your speech to show that you disapproved and denounced the emancipation proclamation, and the reading for a war Democrat for Speaker?

The Union Democratic party in those resolutions distinctly denounced the President's proclamation of emancipation, which my colleague considers now as a necessary war measure. They denounced it as unconstitutional, null and void. That was done by those who nominated and elected my colleague. Mr. MALLORY. Answer my question.

Mr. SMITH. I told the people of Kentucky that I would oppose the operation of that proclamation to the Union men of the South, but that so far as rebels in arms were concerned I was not only for taking their negroes, but that I was for taking their infernal lives and crushing them to atoms.

Mr. MALLORY. I have not yet obtained an answer to my question. I ask my colleague whether he ever dared in his district during his canvass to announce that the proc-

Mr. SMITH. The question was never made in my district whether it was constitutional or unconstitutional. Mr. MALLORY. I would carry on this war against the armed power of the rebels with all the power this Government can constituall the power this Government can constitu-tionally muster against them. I would reduce and destroy their armies; I would destroy all resistance to the laws and Constitution of the United States; and then I hope I would have the magnanimity to spare private property and let the people who have been reduced to submission return to their adegiance and ensubmission return to their allegiance and enjoy their own worperty and live under their own vine and fig-tree. Mr. Sievers. As these gentlemen seem to be hunting up documents for this discussios, I think they need a little more time, and with their permission I will move that the committee rise.

county, Kentucky, as I find them published in the Cincinnati Commercial of July 29, 1863, namely: "He [Mr. Menzies] charges that I do not stand upon the Louisville platform, and that the convention cid not indorse it. I contend it has indorse it, and that I am the friend of the Union party of he State, its true representative, and he it "I never entertained a moment's thought antag-mistic to the action of the Louisville Convention; in the contrary, I stand upon the platform of the Jinion Democratic party of the State, as contained in the resolutions of the Louisville Convention."

And again:

"I am opposed to the radical measures of the Administration, and if elected to Congress will pursue a course consistent with these avowels. In the selection of a Speaker for the House I will vote for a war Democrat; and such measures as neither my vote nor influence as a member of Congress can change, I hope to the measure of my ability to effectually defeat by pressing the war to a speedy close, in destroying the armies of our enemies and in the wake of our victorious arms, and see the Constitution and law and order restored in every State of the Union, under which the Fights of persons and property will be secured and protected."

Mr. MALLORY. I do not know that I have much to add to that speech [laughter] about my colleague's record, or about the convention which nominated him or the people who elected him. And again:

ole who elected him.

I will conclude my remarks by saying that my solemu conviction is that Kentucky repudiates the sentiments uttered by the gentleman a few moments ago as completely as she did at the time when he indorsed such condemnation. He has changed; Kentucky has not. He is entitled to make that change, and I do not quarret with him for having made it. He has a right to doit. Even after he had pledged himself to his constituents to pursue a particular course he has a right to pursue a different course. I do not quarrel with him; it is a matter with himself alone.

A MEMBER. He has no such right.

Mr. MALLORY. I mean to say he has a political right as a member of Congress and political right as a member of Congress, and there is no authority to restrain him. We are not talking about a meral right in this House., I am talking about his power under the rules of the House and the Constitution and laws of the United States after he has pledged himself to his constituents to pursue a particular line of policy to come here and pursue exactly the reverse. I do not quarrel with him; he can settle that with his constituents; but I am determined to make here to-day the distinct avowal that Kentucky at the time he was elected repudiated the proclamation of emancipation and the policy of emancipation, and that she repudiates it now.

Mr. SMITH. At any rate, I have had them all three at a time on my shoulders during this little debate. But allow me to ask my colleagues here who did not vote with me in the election of Speaker, since they quote my language when I said that I would vote for a war Democrat for Speaker, if the Union party of the State of Kentucky, known as the war Democratic party, did not understand from a 1 of their representatives who have been elected here that they would vote when they got here for a war Democrat for Speaker? That was understood. Now, my colleague [Mr. Mallory] never was a Democrat—never, [Mr. Mallory] never was a Democrat—never, but an old-line Whig.

Mr. MALLORY. He was elected as a Union

Mr. MAINTONY. He was elected as a Chick Democrat.

Mr. SMITH. I am speaking of what he was up to the time of this last election. He was always a Whig.

Mr. MAINTONY. Will my colleague tell racy of Kentucky ever imposed upon their representatives in Congress the duty of voting for a war Democrat for Speaker? Mr. SMITH. I thought the gentleman had yourself in that speech to vote for a war Democrat for Speaker. I have not said one word about it; I had forgotten it, overlooked it. The gentleman has lugged it in himself now, said Mr. Vallandigham. [Laughter]. He electioneered in the State of Ohio for Mr. Vallandigham, who was an anti-war man, who was against vowing men or money to put down the rebellion. I saw that he was presented by a majority of the Democratic party here so far as I could hear, and my consituents had directed me not to vote for such a map. I found that there were other men suggested and nominated in this House by suggested and nominated in this House by that same Democratic party who were, in my judgment, identified with him. I found also that members from New York who are op-posed to voting men or money for the sup-pression of this rebellion were in that caucus, and therefore as a Democrat I could find no and therefore, as a Democrat, I could find no war Democrat to vote for, according to the old acceptation of the term. [Laughter, and

Mr. MALLORY. My colleague will allow me to ask him whether he did not go into the

Mr. SMITH. I say to my colleague distinctly that I never saw in the papers in the city of Washington or anywhere else that a Republilan caucus was to be called.

MALLORY. Did not the gentleman go nto it?

Mr. SMITH. No. sir; I went into a Union, in unconditional Union caucus. [Shouts of 'Good!" "Good!" from the Republican side.]

Mr. MALLORY. Did the gentleman go nto the caucus which nominated the present listinguished Speaker of this House?

Mr. SMITH Ves. sir. Lid.

Mr. SMITH. Yes. sir, I did. Mr. MALLORY I will ask the gentleman another question, and then I am done. Did be ever go into the other caucus to find out whether there were war Democrats there are Mr. SMITH. No, sir; because I smelt the tmosphere and discovered its character be-

I find to-day in the distinguished gentleman who occupies the Speaker's chair a Democrat according to the true and patriotic acceptation of that word, and he is a man that I amproud to stand by because he is for the Government and the Constitution and the Union—a man who has never stood up for a man or a party opposed to this war or to this Government. Unon that issue I am willing to go he nent. Upon that issue I am willing to go be

Mr. MALLORY, I desire to ask the gentleman one more question. I ask him if he did not, in advance of his arrival in the city of Washington, and at the time he stood upon his pledge to yet for a war Demorat for washington, and at the lime he stood upon his pledge to vote for a war Democrat for Speaker, write a letter to some gentleman here—I do not know whom—some gentleman of the Republican party, or of this great Union porty, as he calls it, or to some gentleman of that clique, or party, or whatever he may choose to call it, in which he pledged himself o vote for SCHUYLER COLFAX, or some other Republican, for Speaker?

Mr. SMITH. I answer the question by saying that if I wrote such a letter to any-body at any time I do not recollect at this time ever having written mr. MALLORY. Ah! Mr. Reporter, write lown for him as his answer, non mi ricordo. Mr. SMITH. I will now ask my colleague a question: whether the people of Kentucky bave not, by their votes and by their action, repudiated the Vallandigham anti-war, anti-money and anti-man party of the Narth?

money, and anti-men party of the North?
Mr. MALLORY. The people of Kentucky, as I said, have pledged themselves to sustain furnishing men and money. Mr. SMITH. I want a direct answer from my colleague.
Mr. MALLORY. I mean to say that if the Vallandigham party, or any other party in the North, opposed the furnishing of men or money, the Union Democracy of Kentucky was against that party.

Mr. SMITH. Then I ask my colleague this urther question: what right he had to be in caucus with men who supported that party n the recent election?
Mr. MALLORY. I was never in that caucus. I did not go into that Democratic cau-cus. I have no obliviousness about the matter, no non-recollecting anything about it.

another question—what his name is doing on that national committee?

Mr. MALLORY. Mr. Chairman, I am now acting with the Northern Democracy, as I was pledged to do by the platform of the Union Democracy of Kentucky, which has been read here to day by my colleague [Mr. Wadsworth], and to which he is pledged, too. Mr. SMITH. Mr. Chairman, my colleague [Mr. CLAY] alusion in the world to him.

Mr. CLAY. I am very glad to hear the gentleman's candid explanation upon that point. But as I am upon the floor I wish to make an observation or two, so that I may stand fair before my constituents and the world. This very question as to whom I would vote for as Speaker of the House of Representatives was put to me on every occasion in my State, and I replied emphatically that I would make no pledges; that I would not pledge myself to vote for a Democrat or for a party of Kentucky, for we have a Democratic that I intended to do what I have for any proper maderall the circum. were in the beginning of the war, in favor of crushing the recellion by every means, whatever it may be. I speak now of the Union party of Kentucky, for we have a Democratic party there which would not be trusted by Union men further than one could throw a builby the tail. [Laughter] I opposed that I bemocratic party. It was the distinct understanding of the Union men of Kentucky, and is to-day, that whatever stands in the way of the Army of the Ropublic must be removed.

stand that remark to embrace me as one of the three on his shoulders. I must deny the soft impeachment. I was not present when my colleague [Mr. SMITH] got up here to unsay all he had said in Kentucky, and to take back all the pledges he had given to support the platform of the Union Democratic party the platform of the House would be the result of the H say all he had said in Rentucky, and to take back all the pledges he had given to support the platform of the Union Democratic party of our State. Had I been present when he rose to make his avowals—I came in too late to understand their drift—I should have felt, I trust, that just indignation at his betrayal of the Union party of Kentucky as not to have waited for my collegue [Mr. Matlory] barwaited for my colleague [Mr. MALLORY], bardened with the weight of illness, to respond and to defend the State from the position assigned to her. Let the gentleman [Mr. SMITH] speak for his own constituents. Let him speak for those who practiced a great him speak for those who practiced a great fraud upon the Union Democratic party of Kentucky in his nomination; but let him not speak for the people of Kentucky.

I do not propose to examine the value of his present opinions. All that I now complain of is that he was not understood when the convention nominated him, and when the party voted for him. He should have declared then what he has avowed to day, in order that then what he has avowed to day, in order that the Union party in Kentucky might have put in the field a candidate to oppose the positions which he now assumes. If he had, after that, peen elected, I should not have reproached him with any speech he might have made. But now I do arraign him, here on this floor, as being unfaithful to the pledges which he made to his party, and as one who has betrayed the pledges that he gave to the electors of Harrison county, the promises that he would concern the radical measures of the National Harrison county, the promises that he would oppose the radical measures of the National Administration, and particularly its unconstitutional emancipation policy. I find him here now indorsing that policy; I find him indorsing the radical measures of the Administration, and going even a bow-shot beyond anything the Administration has yet attempted. I find him here, sir, instead of redeeming that pledge that he would vote for a war Democrat in the election of a Speaker, voting for an avowed supporter of the radical policy of the Administration, and a member of the Republican party. I find him voting with those men on many radical propositions which the Legis-lature of Kentucky and the State Convention him here, sir ____ Mr. GRINNELL. I call the gentleman Mr. GRINNEGE. I can the genteman to order for calling the Speaker a revolutionist.

Mr. WADSWORTH. I take it back, I did not mean it in any offensive sense. But if this is not a revolution I do not know what is. [Laughter]. No one has more respect for the Speaker personally than myself.

But let me return to the point that I make against my colleague. The doctrines that he now avows may be right or wrong; I do not discuss that; but he did not give the people of Kentucky or the Union Democracy in his district an opportunity to send a man here of different principles. They thought that my colleague stood with us upon the platform of the Union Democratic convention which had been held at Louisville. He was nominated by been held at Louisville. He was nominated by us and he was our candidate. Our adherents sustained him against Mr. Menzies, my col-league of the last Congress. He was sustain-ed simply because he was the nominee of the Union Democratic party. Had Mr. Menzies re-accept the point made by my collesgue [Mr. Wadsworth], and in 1864 let us go before our people for their judgment. He has further alluded to things which it is necessary for me to answer. The Louisville Journal, the leading paper of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, and claiming to be the representative of the people there, opposed me, and denounced me "from pillar to post." My district is composed of ten counties, and has one bundred and twenty thousand inhabitants. Two or three handbills to every man, woman and child of that district were distributed Two or three handbills to every man, woman and child of that district were distributed from the office of the Louisville Journal against me, and in favor of Mr. Menzies, because they said that he was the Union conservative Democrat of that district, while I was a radical. Not a paper in my State advocated my election. I went before the people on principle, nominated by a convention that the Louisville Journal denounced as radical, Republican, and everything abominable in the sight of the people of Kentucky. With that issue I went before the people—for unconditional Union—and I rode over all opposition. I was returned by the people—for unconditional Union—and I rode over all opposition. I was returned by a majority of 5,040. I do not know now a man who was running for Congress who was in favor of my election. I know the influence that the State government brought to bear against me. It was nothing but principle, a sublime love of country—principle and devoted patriotism and everlasting philanthropy that made me their Representative over the late Representative from that disover the late Representative from that dis-riet, who did not vote for the appropriation bills to carry on the war.

Let the issue be made between us before the people. The gentleman has thrown down the gauatlet. The war is waged. Let it go to the people of Kentucky to be decided in 1864. Let them decide in 1865 whether they will indorse us as members of Congress. I speak for my people. I have seen and communicated with them. I say to my colleagues municated with them. Isay to my colleagues that I have in my possession letters from the best and truest men of Kentucky—men who own more negrees than all of us put together—who indorse me for voting for the present Speaker [Mr. Collean], in voting, as my colleague said, for an "Abolitionist for Speaker" I have not yet received a single letter reproving me for voting as I did. They also indorse my resolution, and they indorse my position generally. I believe that they will indorse me hereafter.

Mr. MALLORY. Who are those extensive slaveholders?

Mr. SMITH. If my colleague will call at my room I will tell him. These are private letters, and I do not know that I am at liber y to give their names in the House of Representation.

Mr. MALLORY. If they are private letters the gentleman ought not to have alluded to them in the committee.

Mr. SMITH. I only alluded to them incidentally to show that I had been indorsed in my course, and as I know by the best of men. the gentleman ought not to have alluded to them in the committee.

Mr. SMITH. I only alluded to them incidentally to show that I had been indorsed in my course, and as I know by the best of men. I know my position is right and just, and knowing it will defend it here, believing as I do my people will approbate my course.

Mr. CLAY. Mr. Chairman, I hope I will be pardoned for saying one word before this discussion is permitted to close. It would seem, from what has been said by my coileague [Mr. MALLORY], that all the members from Kentucky who voted for the present Speaker [Mr. Colfax], were recreant to their State and their duty. I wish to understand these gentlemen, and whether they intend to include in their remarks every gentleman upon this floor from Kentucky who had the independence to vote for Mr. Colfax for Speaker? I ask the question for the reason that I have been denounced by the Louisville Journal and other papers in Kentucky with violating my pledges upon that subject. Standing here and least and to the independence of this denate and to the intendence of Dandridge, forty miles from Knoxville.

other papers in Kentucky with violating my pledges upon that subject. Standing here and listening to this decate, and to the insinuations thrown out by those gentlemen, I desire to know whether I am included in their remarks, and am charged by them with violating my pledges? It I am I want them to say so. Mr. MALLORY. I have not, in the most remote way, directly or indirectly, alluded to the gentleman. In replying to my colleague [Mr. Smith], I replied to his sentiments and I repudiated them, and I read from his speech in which he pledged himself to vote for a war I did not go.

Mr. SMITH. Then I will ask my colleague
another question—what his name is doing on that national committee?

In which he pledged himself to vote for a war Democrat for Speaker; and then I showed that he voted for Mr. Colfax. I do not know what the views of my colleague [Mr. Clay] are: whether he approves the proclamation the Army of the Republic must be removed, and that the Government must triumph.

Mr. WADSWORTH. Mr. Chairman, my colleague [Mr. SMITH] has made the remark that he had on this occasion two or three of his colleagues on his shoulders. I understand that remark to embrace me as one of the three on his shoulders. I must deny the organization of the House would be the result of his not doing so; but that in that event, and that event only, he would do so?

Mr. CLAY. I made no such pledge what-

Mr. CLAY. I made no such pleage what-ever. More than that, I stated I would not make any pleage. I stated it everywhere; and I felt at liberty here to canvass every claim and to vote for the best candidate, as I thought the interest of the country required. I have no concealment to make in regard to my views. I have never attached myself to one side or the other. I am independent; I mean to vote for measures as they come un mean to vote for measures as they come up according as it seems to me best and for the interest of my country, disregarding all party ties and party feelings, for I cannot say that I cordially agree with either side of the House. I must say, so far as the Democratic party is concerned, my prejudices are rather against them. I had always been against the Democratic party.

them. I had always been against the Democrats; and the leading Democrats of my State have mostly turned out to be rebels, and a majority of them are now in rebel arms. mean the Democratic politicians of my State. Such being the case, my prejudices were rather against them; but I did not know what they would be elsewhere, and I reserved my right to determine the matter when I reached here. Mr. WADSWORTH. In what I said there was no allusion to the gentleman, because I understood him to stand upon the State platform, and to still stand upon it. I would inquire of the gentleman if I am not correct in that understanding.

Mr. CLAY. I voted for the platform in the Legislature and in the convention, and intend-to be governed in my judgment by the State platform as laid down as far as it is applicable platform as laid down as far as it is applicable to the times. I have made no repudiation of it, and I have given no vote which will not justify me in standing upon it. But these gentlemen seemed to arraign my colleagues as violating their pledges, because they voted for the present Speaker. The papers in my State take that ground, and these gentlemen seemed to follow in the same direction, and was ted to know whether they mean me or not seamed to follow in the same direction, and wanted to know whether they meant me or not.

I take the opportunity to explain myself now that I may not be misunderstood upon this subject. I do not intend to create any ill-feeling between my colleagues and myself. I desire to have the friendliest relations with all of them. Yet, gentlemen, I intend to act here for myself, not to be governed by anybody, to exercise my best judgment on all these questions, and to go home and face my constituents like an honest man, and tell them that I have done my duty according to the dictates of my own judgment.

I have made these remarks because this subject sprung up incidentally here. I should not have al: aded to what has been said in the newspapers if it had not been for the course of my colleagues this evening. I intended to

GUERRILLAS IN KENTUCKY.

Exciting Rumors-Scottsville Robbed

The city was filled with rumors yesterday of a rebel invesion of the State, and numerous were the stories set afloat, all of which were exaggerated and highly colored to suit the views of those who started the stories. One report was that Glasgow had been captured and that the town had been sacked by a large band of guerrillas. We made diligent inquiry name of Allen Montague, were arrested on in regard to the ramors and learn the following facts:

> On Monday morning, as Captain Miles, of the Home Guard, with two of his sons, was on his way to Glasgow, Kentucky, he was attacked by a body of armed guerrillas, some fifteen or twenty in number, who fired upon them, killing one of the boys, and since that time the other boy has not been heard from. The old man came into the town very much excited, stating that the rebels in strong force were advancing upon the town, which created considerable excitement. Some fifteen or twenty armed men robbed a Mr. Shaw of fifteen dollars, all the money he had, and took all his clothing, within a mile of the town, which were all that made their appearance there. There is stationed at Glasgow the Thirty-seventh Kentucky, under command of Col. C. S. Hanson, one of our mos gallant officers. We conversed last night with persons just from Glasgow, who give us the above facts, and who state that it was gererally believed there that a force some two direction of Scottsville.

> From the mail agent on the Nashville rai!road, we learn that on Wednesday night thirty-six guerillas crossed the road at Rocky Hill. a station ninety-five miles below this city, moving in the direction of Scottsville, at which place it was reported that they had had a fight, but with what result our informant did not know. We learn that on yesterday several parties who are merchants in Scottsville, and who are in this city purchasing goods, received private dispatches stating that the town had been entered by a band of guerrillas and robbed, and on the strength of this information the parties who had bought goods went to the merchants from whom they had made purchases, asking to have the goods taken back. We are informed that there are numbers of guerrillas in Barren, Monroe and Cumberland counties, who are committing all sorts of depredations upon the citizens. On Wednesday they stole seven horses from Mr. John Barrett, who resides near Glasgow. It is the opinion of some that these guerrillas intend to concentrate their forces and make a raid upon, the Louisville and Nashville railroad, with the view of stopping communication between

AN OLD NEWSPAPER -A friend has shown us a copy of "The New England Weekly Journal," No. LV., published in Boston. Monday, April 8, 1728, nearly one hundred and thirty-six years age. It is thirteen inches ing the whole paper. The first column is occupied with a story about the invention of the stocking loom. The greater part of the second column is filled with a "Declaration in Council," by his Excellency, Robert Hunter, tisms and funerals, with an account of the arcloses with the following advertisements:

A very Likely Negro Girl, about 13 or 14 bars of Age, speaks good English, has been in a Country some Years, to be Sold. Inquire of the inter hereof."

know, merely from curiosity, to which of Mr. Sumner's "Puritan Ancestors" these slaves belonged. The "Likely Negro Girl" was evidently imported from Africa, as the description shows. Some "Puritan Ancestor" had probably stolen her from her parents for the purpose of instilling into her some of the principles of freedom which formed the cargo of the "Mayflower." NO ELECTION OF UNITED STATES SENATOR We failed to receive our Legislative reports | tion from remote States, and the factition last night, and are consequently unable to lay the proceedings before our readers. For Senator there were a few ballots, with but little By command of Maj. GEN. FOSTER. change from those given yesterday. At a late hour the name of Burnam was with drawn, after which one ballot was taken, on which Bramlette received fifty-three votes, and Guthrie fifty-two. What number the other candidates received we did not learn. leave Main and Market. As the name of Burnam has been withdrawn, it is the general impression that Bramlette will be elected.

Amusements. Wood's THEATER.—The benefit of Mr. Albaugh last night was a perfect ovation. At the conclusion of "Damon and Pythias" loud calls were made for Mr. A., who appeared and returned tbanks in a neat and appropriate address. This was followed by the presentation of a splendid diamond ring, tendered as a mark of approbation and esteem by a select few of Mr. Albaugh's friends. Maj. Farris made the presentation speech, which was responded to by Mr. A. in a few feeling remarks. To-night the farewell benefit and last an-

ASTHMA .- Upwards of one thousand of the worst cases of asthma thave been relieved by using Jonas Whitcomb's Remedy for Asthma. In no one case of purely asthmatic character has it failed to give prompt relief, and in many cases a permanent cure has been effected. No danger need be apprehended from its use. An infant may take it with perfect safety. j:30 deod3&w COUGHS, COLDS, SORE THROAT, ASTHMA AND CONSUMPTION.—It is only necessary for any one troubled with these complaints to try one bottle of Dr. Strickland's Mellifluous Cough Balsam to convince them that this is the best preparation ever used. It not only cures the above effections of the throat and lungs, but it cures night sweats and spitting of blood and is an arrival and spitting of blood, and is an excellent gargle for any kind of sore threat. It is pleasant to take and a safe medicine for infants. Fifty cents per bottle. Sold by all druggists.

I beg leave to inform my old custom ers, acquaintances, and the trade generally, that I will continue the business at the old stand, No. 215, Fifth street, between Main and Market, (housekeepers' headquarter), where I will always keep on hand a large and wellassorted stock of tin, copper and sheet iron ware, plated and brittania ware, house-keep ers hardware, French and English japanned, enameled and pressed ware, refrigerators and water coolers. Particular attention paid to roofing, spouting and guttering, and all kinds of out-door work.

Mr. Farnsworth offered a resolution, which was adopted, requesting the President, if not inconsistent with the public interest, to in-form the House whether brevet rank has been conferred on volunteer forces, in pursuance of the provisions of the act of March, 1863, and if so, on whom: and if not, the reason Mr. Dawes stated the facts in the case of Mr. Field, of Louisiana, saying that in all that part of the district made up of the city of New Orleans, comprising almost the entire district (certainly more than nineteen twentieths of the inhabitants), there was no election held, and no opportunity given for an elector to ex-press his choice. The election, so far as the city of New Orleans is concerned, was supressed by orders emanating directly from the military governor. This suppression was ef-fectual, so not a vote was cast in the city of New Orleans.

Congress that several brigades have re-en-listed for the war, and strenuous efforts are being made to initiate a general movement Great complaints are made by rebel troops against the Confederate mail regulations. It requires fifteen days to send a letter two hundred miles.

Dissatisfaction in Lee's army is so great in consequence of the reported reduction in their rations, and has reached such a point as to require the commander to issue a general or-der, appealing to their patriotism and religion, to prevent mutiny.

Recent intelligence from Lee's army states that they are executing the tithe tax of onetenth of all foreign supplies on inhabitants throughout the Confederacy. Their horses receive but four ears of corn per day, and are not allowed to be used except for extraordinary emergencies. Washington, January 29. Secretary Chase has under consideration a further removal of the restrictions on trade, and when the approval of the War Department has been obtained, additional regulations will be adopted, enlarging the field of commercial business transactions in sections rescued from the insurgents. He is known to have favored most liberal facilities for bringing cotton and other products to market, consistent with a due regard for the reket, consistent with a due regard for the re-quirements of the military service. ACCIDENT ON THE BALTIMORE AND OHIO RALEOAD.—The mail train over the Baltimore and Ohio railroad coming west met with an accident near Bowlesburg, about 12 o'clock Friday night. Owing to a defective rail the last car and the sleeping car were thrown off the track. The balance of the train passed over safely. The sleeping car upset down an embankment, falling a distance of about twelve feet. The passengers were asleep at the time, and were thrown about the cars in a violent manner by the sheek. Mr. Donalcon would arrive on Saturday at noon, and that she a violent manner by the shock. Mr. Donalson the conductor of the sleeping car, was lying asleep with his legs hanging over the seat in front of him. BEAUTY IS PUBLIC PROPERTY.-The following very sensible advice is from the Autocrat of the Breakfast Table:

There are some very pretty, but unhappily, very ill-bred women, who don't understand the law of the road, with regard to handsome faces. Nature and custom would, no doubt, agree in conceding to all males the right of at least two distinct looks at a very comely female countenance, without any infraction of the rules of courtesy or the sentiment of respect. The first look is necessary to define the person of the individual one meets, so as to avoid it in passing. Any unusual attraction detected in a first glance is a suffiattraction detected in a first glance is a suffi-cient apology for a second—not a prolonged, impertinent stare, but an appreciating homage of the eyes, such as a stranger may inof-fersively yield to a passing image. It is as-tonishing how morbidly sensitive some vul-gar beauties are to the slightest demonstration OFFICE OF THE LOUISVILLE DEMOCRAT, FRIDAY EVENING. January 29th. 1864.
